PRODUCERS

RAYMOND H. KOCH
Superintendent of Derry Township Schools

As the curtain falls at the end of our engagement in Theater H. H. S., we look back to consider some of the factors that made it so successful.

Of course no production is possible without a producer. The producer of our show is Mr. Raymond H. Koch. The offices of Producer Koch and his staff may be found in our theater, conveniently located off the right wing of the main foyer. His duties include the supervision of all the members of the theater, from the time they enter the theater school, until they attain the height of understudies and finally stars. To his offices come financial questions, the problems of maintaining the theater, including scenery, props, lighting and other equipment, and the hiring of personnel.

Directing the actual work in our theater is Mr. George D. Lange. He sees to it that the production runs smoothly, and that the work of the cast is recorded. He makes sure that the theater is properly equipped and in excellent condition and that the cast obey the rules of the theater. He does much to insure the efficiency with which our theater is run.

Assisting Producer Lange is Mr. Rufus K. Eby, who sees that discipline is enforced during show-time. To him come members of the cast to offer excuses for lateness at rehearsal, or for failure to show up for a performance, or to ask permission to be excused from a show for some special reason.

Mr. Robert Jacoby directs the work of stage maintenance. Under his direction come the electricians, who handle the lighting; the carpenters, who construct the sets; the printers, who are responsible for the programs; the machinists, who are assigned various jobs; and the greenhouse employees, who arrange the floral decorations of both theater and stage.

Only now that our production has closed do we fully appreciate the efforts that the administration has put forth to make our run in Theater H. H. S. so successful and profitable.

SYNOPSIS

giant, Baron Bill-Aaron Bomberrum, was played by Ken, and the giant's servant, Snickerty Nick, was characterized by Jay Stahl. This dramatization certainly climaxed an unforgettable year.

Then came high school with all its aches and pains. Aaron Kauffman was certainly put in his place when a teacher broke a ruler over his head. And the entire seventh grade practically lived in Guatemala during history class, listening to all those vivid accounts of Miss Geyer's travels. How the boys used to sound all sorts of wolf calls at pretty Miss Ritzman—the teacher who tried to convince her confused young students that there is nothing like cold, but just an absence of heat. And do you remember the way our music teacher sent those bewildered children one by one to the office for misbehavior in music class?

But life was fun in school, too—especially the time everyone brought a nice shiny apple to Miss Wyckoff's room to munch as a mid-afternoon snack. Latin verbs?—those young linguists even published a Latin newspaper, with Mildred Ortenzi editing the obituary. Mr. Foreman's biological lecture room offered ring-side seats for the baseball games being played on the playground by gym classes. Yes, school had its good points!

The class of '48 was guided very ably through the entire senior high by President Jay Stahl. During those years in senior high, many students became prominent in various school programs. Outstanding in boys sports were Remo lonni, Clair Eshleman, Divo DiClement, Roy Heistand, Harold Kreider, William Winters, Charles Gipe, Franklin Gingrich, Wayne Stettler, Harold Hostetter, Earl Hoffman, Pete Marcucci, and Richard Baratucci; and Louise Whisler, Lois Shultz and Lois Copp in girls' sports. Noted in music were Adelia Mease, who presented violin solos in the Community Theater many times, John Bomberger, Nellie Stump, and Jay Heisey. Jessie Nucci's writing won her wide acclaim.

The twelfth of those twelve glorious years in school is dramatized pictorially for you in this book.

It all began many, many years ago when a multitude of very young children entered the first grade of school. And what a time that first day was! Sam Black cried his heart out because he didn't know the way home, until understanding Miss Baker sat him on her desk and counted his freckles to ease his misery.

The next few years were crammed full with many very interesting events. In fact, at one time Bob Tshudy was inspired to write poetry for the GRADESPEAKER. John Reeder, in grade four was acclaimed "The Child of the Week" for being the first one to bring in his health correction slip. During the same year, Doris Kautz did not miss a single spelling word—imagine! One of the most outstanding honor students for many of her grade school years was Hanna Sponagle.

Of course, the year in which these students graduated from the grades proved to be very outstanding — in one way or another. Elma Breidenstine established herself as a real he-woman when she struck Roy Heistand over the head with a baseball bat. One young carpenter, Jay Heisey by name, made a wooden rat trap but failed to make a catch. Often Mr. Risser's temper would get the best of him, and he would throw a ruler at some unsuspecting worm. The funny part is that simultaneously the whole room would duck—all but the unsuspecting—and you know the rest. Oh yes, Jay Stahl and Ken Ernst starred in a play-called SNICKERTY NICK. The

In Memoriam

LOIS SHIREMAN '48

In loving memory of our classmate, Lois Shireman, who was graduated from this world on November 29, 1946, we whisper prayerfully the immortal, comforting words of Tennyson:

*"Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea,
But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.*

*Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark;
For though from out our bourne of time and place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar."*

"THE SHOW GOES ON"

We, the senior class of Hershey High School, in the year nineteen-hundred and forty-eight, being of sound mind and body, do hereby make our last will and testament.

To the school we leave a sufficient supply of Duz to brighten the walls of our corridors for the new paintings.

To the teachers we leave hearing aids for class discussions and cotton for between-class time.

To Mr. Frock we bequeath sound-proof walls and a smile.

To Mr. Chestnut we present one boy scout knife and a book entitled "The Art of Cutting Up."

We would like to take Miss Liddicote along, but because of the teacher shortage, we feel that it is wise to depart without her.

To Mr. McCutcheon we leave a tin G-Man badge and a soldier's helmet.

To the underclassmen we leave our bubble-gum which may be salvaged from the desks and seats by scraping with sharp knives.

To any devoted underclass girls, Joan Larsen, Doris Kautz, Helen Horst, and other engagees leave their version of the book "How to Get a Man and Hold Him."

To the juniors we leave nothing—they think they have everything.

To the sophomores we leave the common sense we failed to use.

To the freshmen we give all the opportunities we overlooked in making Hershey High the finest school in every respect.

To the sophomore girls with senior boy friends we bequeath the necessary handkerchiefs to catch the tears.

To the student body we give a year's supply of slugs to use in the pay telephone.

To the commercials and elective typists we leave one permit to use the elevator in the commercial building.

To the football team we bequeath a football; here's hoping they will make use of it and turn out a new record for Hershey High.

To the Hall Patrol we will some soft-soled shoes, billy clubs, and a hemp-rope of corridor length to keep the traffic from colliding.

We don't leave anything to the swimming team, but we remove Jack Stuckey hoping that it will help.

To Bev Barnard we leave Nellie Stump's "yen" for older men.

To Chauncey Breckenmaker we bequeath Aaron Kauffman's "Korn."

To Joanne Peck we leave Nancy Kreider's ability to keep quiet.

For the benefit of Fred Edris we take with us the key to the detention room.

To Gloria Baratucci and Bill Long we bequeath a wind bag to be used everytime the dying fire of their romance needs fanning.

To Harry Hoffman we leave Bruce Purcell's cradle-robbing ability.

To Carl Crum we give Frank Gingrich's speed on the basketball court.

Jay Heisey's voice we leave to no one for he needs it himself.

To Ken Garman we leave Bill Stover's weight and wit.

To Frances Nucci we bequeath all her sister's abilities.

To Gary Moore we leave Paul Fitterer's trim appearance.

To Eva Cialone we bequeath one gross of green permits (signed) headed, Eva excused.

To Levi Zeigler we leave Bill Umberger's ability to carry on a conversation in Dutch.

For the benefit of the faculty we leave.

We, on this day, May 28, 1948, extend our most sincere wishes to all who enter and leave the portals of Hershey High School.

SCENARISTS

For many long weeks, the scenarists have worked ardently on the scenario for our magnificent production in Theater H. H. S. Let us turn the calendar back six months and snoop around the theater.

In one noisy room we find Nancy Kreider and her senior section staff writing publicity for the stars; in another, a different group is drafting a manuscript concerning the understudies and intermission.

Coming from the office is the chief, Sam Black. That preoccupied expression means statistics, details, and script whirling through his mind.

Let us wander backstage. There is the art staff grouped around a single drawing. They are deliberating over the design.

Oh! That blinding flash could have been only Aaron Kauffman at work with his camera again.

Come along everyone. The business offices are just ahead. Margaret Tice, business manager, is in conference with Miss Royer. It seems that they are up against a serious problem—how to keep the box office out of the red. Through another door we catch a glimpse of our pretty typists industriously pecking away at the script. In a third office we see Jay Stahl and his many assistants diligently sorting ads.

Indeed if the worth of any production is measured by the amount of work put into it, the scenarists have certainly contributed their share in making this one a real hit.

"First-nighters"

Tuesday's cast

The stars of the HHS Theater presented their class play, NEW FIRES, before record-breaking audiences.

Stephen was ably portrayed both nights as a well-to-do author who wanted his family to understand the deeper values of life. He invited them to visit him at a farm he had inherited from an uncle, where he had gone previously to further his literary ambitions.

Ann, shown as his negligent wife did not understand very well the problems of a writer. She gave him little sympathy.

Olive, the older daughter, was strong-willed and claimed she hated being dictated to. However, throughout the play she gradually accepted the logical philosophy of the young Doctor Gray.

Following Stephen Santry's ultimatum that any who wanted food and clothing must work, Dick, the elder son, aided by his pretty young wife, Eve, became a farming enthusiast instead of a do-nothing. They were to become proprietors of the farm after a three-year probationary period. Olive and Dr. Gray eventually joined forces; and Ann became more sympathetic and understanding toward her husband.

The antics of the children, Billy and Phyllis, and the servants, Lucinda, Suzanne, Sid, and Jerry, kept the audiences amused throughout both performances.

May the entire 1948 cast of the HHS Theater play their future roles in life with the same enthusiasm and effort displayed in NEW FIRES.

Left, "I doubt if I was happier then. I don't see how I could've been." Center, "Oh shoot!" "All right, I will!" Right, "Well, here's the candle when you're ready."

ACTORS' FUND

One of the most outstanding sources of money for the Actors' Fund was the cake sale. The object of this drive was to contribute to the financial means for the actors' annual dinner-dance. Success of the project was evidenced in the lavish party made possible for the actors at Hotel Hershey.

ATTRACTIONS

Good evening, theater fans everywhere. This is your announcer, Donald Hartman, broadcasting from the Main Foyer of the Hershey Theater where the premiere of the play, "Mid-Winter Night's Mare," by the renowned contemporary writer, Jessie Nucci, is to be presented. The all-time, all-star cast is headed by such names as Mlle Sponaugle and Edward Hoffman. The director for this production is Jay Garber.

Tonight's gathering of celebrities is expected to be unparalleled in the year's social season. From where I am standing, I can see William Stover, the well-known light-bulb tightener, talking to Pennsylvania's Secretary of Agriculture, Franklin Wagner.

That tremendous stir was just created by the entrance of two famous film stars, Arrabelle Myers and Miriam Cassel, who flew East from Hollywood specially for tonight's performance.

Autograph hounds are continually rushing for the signature of Harold Kreider, the Phillies' player who just won the National Pennant for his team, by taking a somersault after he had stumbled in catching a fly ball. With him are the wealthy manufacturers, Melvin Cassel and Clair Eshleman. A new attachment to their motor scooters has revolutionized travel. This device, an atomically controlled automatic drive, now enables the driver to sleep, read, or do almost anything while the scooter speeds on.

The governor, Jay Stahl, has just arrived in a sleek, black convertible with his wife, the former Joan Newton, renowned costume designer.

Ah, yes! There at the popcorn machine I see Herbie Cassady, Esq. He has just written the book, "The Art of Gaining Weight."

A plane landed this afternoon with many notables aboard. The pilot, Harold Hostetter, and hostess, Shirley Stump, had as their guests: Adelia Mease, world-famous concert violinist; Dick Baratucci, lightweight wrestling champ; Macy's buyer and well-known fashion authority, Lois Shultz; and Pete Marcucci, who has just won wide acclaim for his new dance creation, "Madman's Ecstasy." Nellie Stump, hand and foot drummer of "Gingrich's Girls" was also on board.

Entering now are several outstanding men of the sports world: Earl Hoffman, physical education instructor of H. J. C.; Divo DiClemente, football coach of Penn State; and Bob Tshudy, merman who has just accomplished a ten-and-a-half twist back-flip dive. Jim Hoffsmith, pro-basketball star, is now coming in with Fred Kerr, chief machinist of Jonni's Auto Company.

Several members of the medical profession have chosen to take a night out. Dr. Sam Willard arrived a moment ago. Entering now are Dr. Black and several nurses from the Hershey Hospital; Ruth Anna Kegerreis, Louise Whisler, and Nancy Muench.

A taxi has just arrived with the famous baby photographer, George Cassel. Accompanying him is that prominent playboy of the night-spots, Paul Fitterer.

Of course, there are always late arrivals, but let me take you into the auditorium before the performance begins.

The orchestra is now tuning in the pit, which signal means it won't be long until the curtain rises on the first act of "Mid-Winter Night's Mare." I see one of the foremost baritone players, Warren Alleman, occupying a first chair in the orchestra. Mrs. Alleman, the former Dolores Coble, is sitting nearby in the company of the prominent lawyer, William Umberger and his wife. The audience has settled down and is now eagerly awaiting the entrance of the conductor. There is a full house tonight. Standing room is rapidly being filled to capacity. What an assemblage of famous names!

Ah! . . . the house lights are dimming. The guest conductor, Jay Heisey, who made his debut in the Metropolitan last season, has now entered the pit.

Before I leave this broadcast, the theater wishes me to acknowledge the programs and posters, printed by Roy Alger and Charles Gipe.

The overture has already begun, so stand by for more up-to-the-minute news at intermission. And now—on with the show! . . .

The junior understudies wait patiently for their chance to be in the starring roles of seniors. For the forty-niners, the much-awaited Junior Prom and the receiving of class jewelry held the spotlight.

Among the stars of the sports world were Raymond Roush, Robert Weaver, Maurice Reichenbaugh, and Robert Houser in football; Richard Cassel in wrestling; and Dave Shafer in swimming.

Outstanding musicians behind the footlights were Beverly Barnard, Alden Gable, Nancy Gordon, Dolores Gaspari, Peggy Hoffman, and Thalia Pellegrini.

The Sophomore class has played many large parts in the theater of our school life this year. They have been on the stage in many activities.

Those taking the spotlight in sports were Harry Hoffman, Douglas Cassel, and Donald Fasnacht in wrestling; Donald Gridler, and Carl Crum, and in basketball; Carl Mease, Daniel Donovan, Donald Heistand, and Clark Hughes in football; and Richard Bernardini and Warren Boltz in swimming.

"Under the lights" in music were Arthur Weaver, Mary Eckenroth, Colleen Foley, Frances Nucci, Joanne Hostetter, and Lorna Ferucci.

May this half-century class continue the good work and "carry on the show."

COUNCIL OF STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Our theater also has a government of, by and for the actors and their understudies. The Council of Student Government includes the House of Representatives, the Senate, and the Cabinet. The Council itself has three officers—president, vice-president, and secretary of the treasury. The president is the presiding officer of the House of Representatives, and of the combined meetings of the Senate and House. The vice-president is the presiding officer of the Senate.

The House of Representatives is made up of a representative from each homeroom, grades seven to twelve, while the Senate consists of the vice-presidents of each class from the same grades, a representative from each chartered organization, and the summer camp representatives.

The Cabinet is composed of the officers of the Council, the editor-in-chief of the CHOCLATIER, a secretary of service, and the chief and assistant advisers of the Council. The purpose of the Cabinet is to advise the president and vice-president of the Council as to the policies to be followed. This two house set-up allows for a more representative student government, having not only classes equally represented, but also organizations sharing a part in school government. It gives the students an even better chance to practice democracy.

ACTORS' EQUITY ASSOCIATION

The Debating Club is not unlike the Actors Equity Association. Both organizations serve as a sounding-board for the problems facing them. In the Equity, they are the problems of the stage; in the Debating Club, they are the current problems of the theater of the world.

Our debators are members of the Dauphin County Debating League.

This year the team debated on the question: "Resolved that the Federal Government should require arbitration of labor disputes in all basic American industries." Their rivals were Middletown, Susquehanna Township, and Hummelstown.

USHERS

The ushers in our theater are the members of the Hall Patrol. This group of boys, under the supervision of Mr. McCutchen, assume the responsibilities of showing visitors around the school, of preventing accidents in the halls, and of keeping noise and commotion at a minimum.

The members of the Noon Service Club act as the doormen for the daily performances given in our theater. "McConnell's Men," as they are commonly called, keep order at the entrances to the school building, as well as maintain a candy stand during the intermissions.

THEATER TRAFFIC POLICE

We sound an ovation for the members of the Street Safety Patrol, who, under the supervision of Mr. Myron Miller guided the traffic safely to and from the school.

Our applause goes too, to this group of boys, the Future Farmers of America, for the excellence with which they kept our theater and stage attractive with arrangements of greens and flowers.

PHOTOGRAPHERS

Much of the photography, a necessary feature in the publicity of any production, is handled in our theater by the Camera Club. These "photo fiends" started off with a full house right after they received their charter from the Student Council. Under the capable direction of Mr. Eugene Herr, everyone has learned to develop, print, and enlarge pictures. If you were to look behind the scenes some Thursday night, you would be sure to see the camera clickers busily working away in the darkroom. The club is self-supporting and one of the most active in our theater.

The organization was always ready and willing to accept the responsibilities given to it. These active girls sponsored the Friendship Train drive for milk and money in our school.

The Tri-Hi-Y and the Hi-Y combined to present the Easter program from which the students caught the true religious significance of the season.

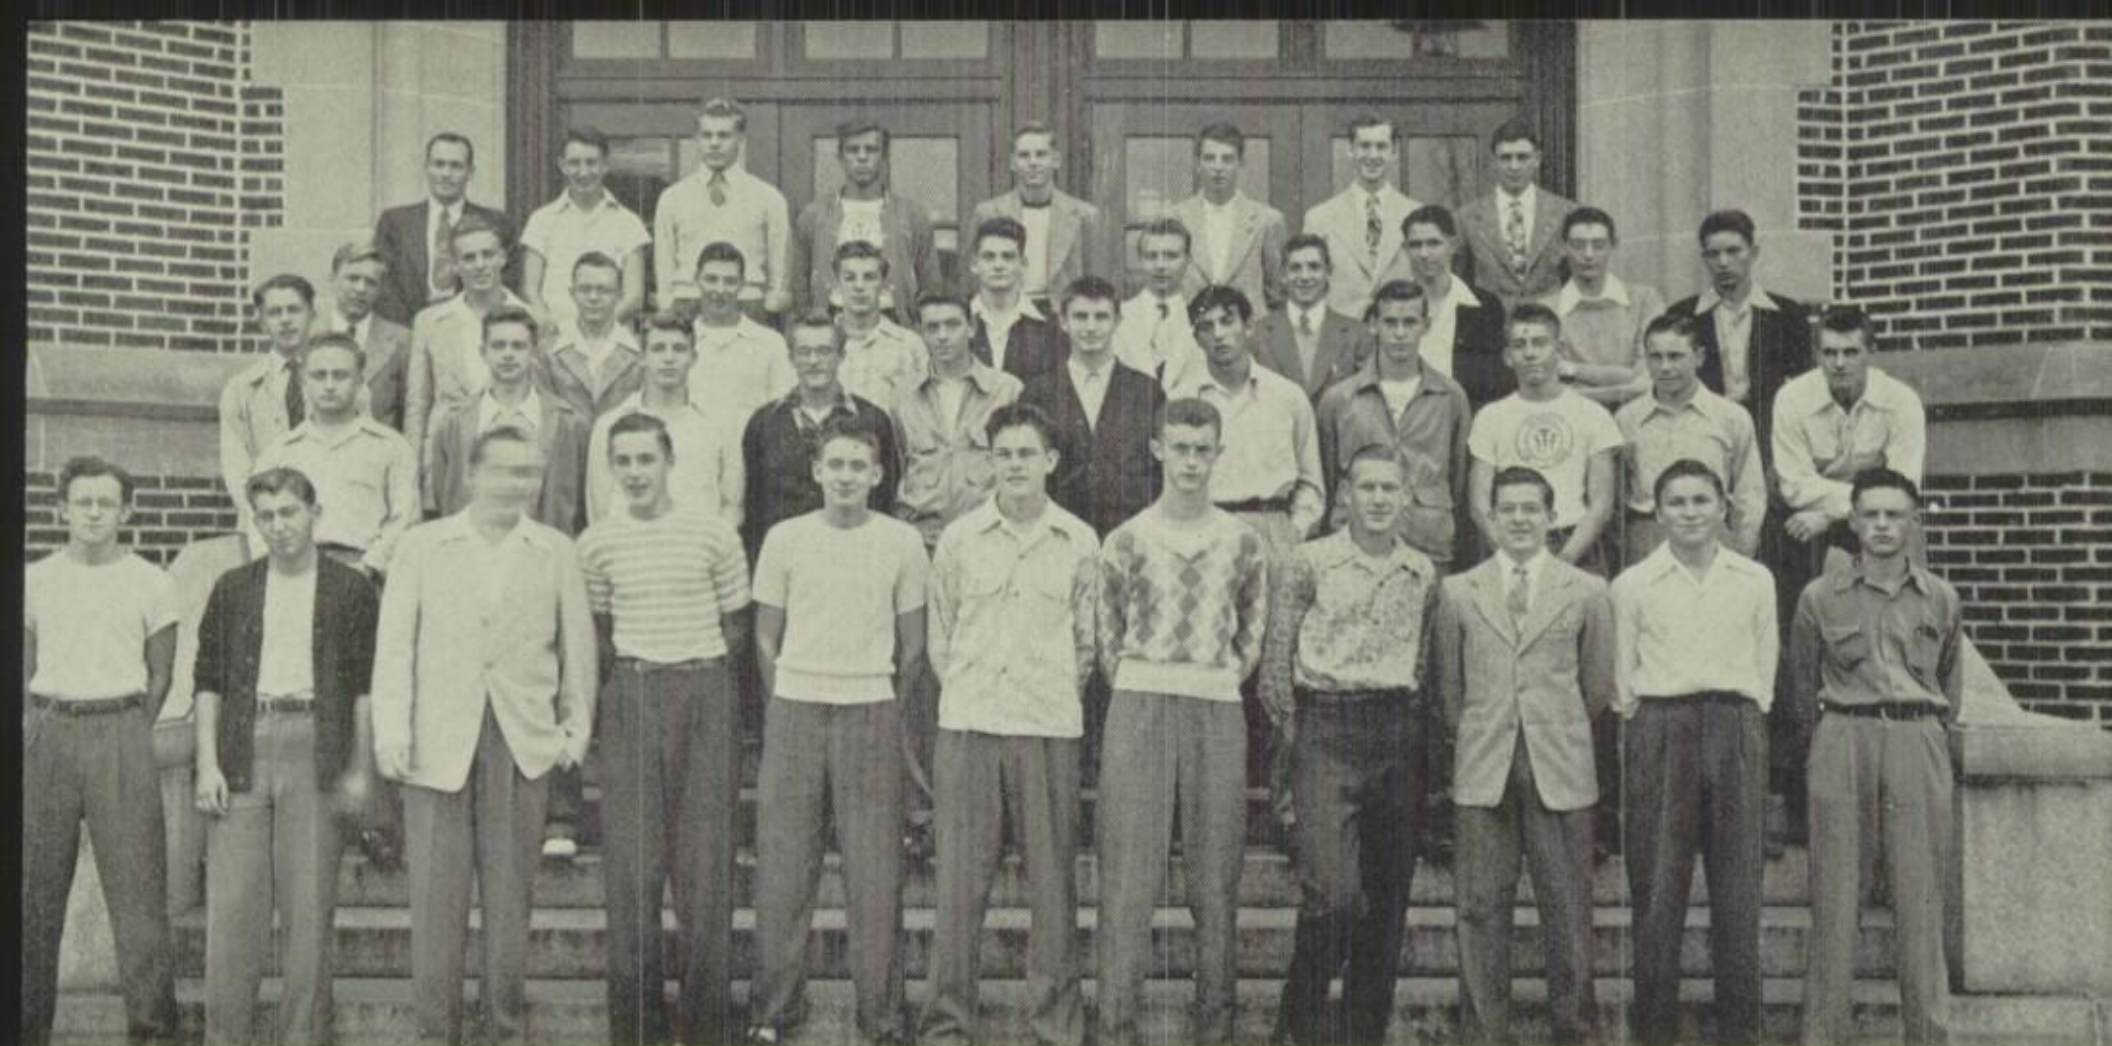

The big event of the year was, of course, the Daisy Dance. All who attended this gala affair agreed that it was truly a memorable pageant. This grand event brought to a close another successful year for the Tri-Hi-Y.

Objective—To seek, to find, to share.

Slogan—Pure thoughts, pure words, and pure actions.

Platform—Self improvement, Christian fellowship, United service.

Spiritual life in our theater is encouraged by the Tri-Hi-Y. Activities of the year opened with the candlelight induction ceremony. Officers—president, Nancy Muench; vice-president, Peggy Hoffman; secretary, Ruth Anna Kegerreis; chaplain, Pat Williams; pianist, Caroline Hoover—were installed. The junior understudies were also inducted.

The Hi-Y of "48", under the supervision of Mr. Charles Kent, completed a successful, active year. This group of senior, junior, and sophomore boys raised $100.00 for the World Youth Fund, sponsored numerous dances, organized a basketball team which earned a record of which to be proud, and took charge of the Thanksgiving assembly program. In order to become acquainted with the doings of other Hi-Y clubs, our Hi-Y sent a delegation to a convention held at Reading.

At Hi-Y meetings throughout the year the boys were always encouraged to carry out good Christian principals. By living up to their slogan, "clean speech, clean sports, clean scholarship, and clean living," these young Americans will indeed play an important part in that great role of life.

Just as the theater has its trade papers, so our school has its paper, the BROADCASTER. In it are the doings of the cast of Hershey High — their activities, organizations, and in a lighter vein on the feature page, their "flames", jokes, and feelings.

The BROADCASTER brings out the writing talents of our cast of players. From their experience on the school paper may come future news columnists, cartoonists, and sports writers. The vocational boys have their own page, which is written by them and about their activities in the various shops. They have their own adviser, Mr. Daniel B. Lewis. The main adviser is Mr. David T. Chestnut; the business adviser is Miss Blanche Liddicote; and printing is in charge of Mr. J. Jared Horn.

This sparkling young lass, Joan Larsen, an acrobat, was an added attraction of the band this year.

Under the very capable direction of Mr. Robert Smith, the band has presented many concerts in our theater. It has presided at all Trojan contests, exhibiting color and showmanship through its pageantry and precision drills. This year's band boasts of an instrumentation of fifty-five.

For the third successive year, the band has won first prize at the Ephrata Farm Show.

These musicians have played for the local Boy Scout rally, entertained visiting students from the Pennsylvania School Press Association, and played at Teachers' Institute and the Veterans' Hospital. The most important event came in the spring when the band gave its annual concert.

An integral part of any theater is its orchestra. In our theater, too, all eyes are focused on the pit as the supervisor of music, Mr. W. Paul Campbell, steps onto the podium and majestically raises his baton. As he lowers his hand, the notes of the various instruments blend into a glorious symphony and float over the entire theater.

Such has been the scene at the orchestra's various concerts and appearances at school assembly programs. It has also been featured between the acts of the Senior Class Play, and has shared the spotlight in the Christmas program and Spring Festival.

Mr. Campbell is shown directing a typical orchestra rehearsal in the auditorium.

' As the last melodious notes of the orchestra fade into the distance, the curtain rises. In its glorious array of colors, the mixed chorus of the H. H. S. Theater stands on the stage ready to blend its voices with the harmonious chords of music for the annual Spring Festival. Suddenly a spotlight is focused on the wing, catching the entrance of the director, Mr. Campbell. With great dignity he takes his place on the podium and slowly raises his baton. A sudden stillness falls over the audience as the chorus breaks into the first notes of the opening selection.

At the close of the last selection the house is filled with a tremendous ovation. The director takes his final bow as the curtain falls.

The program for 1947-'48, in addition to the Spring Festival, included performances requested by churches and civic organizations of the community.

A new addition to Theater H. H. S. this year was the all-girl chorus. The desire of the girls to engage in more vocal activity has brought about the organizing of these female song-birds. The new chorus singers, under the capable direction of Mr. W. Paul Campbell, have given fine proof of their musical talents upon the stage of our theater.

These chorus singers caught the eyes of parents and residents of the community when they appeared in the annual Spring Festival. They were featured, too, in various assemblies throughout the year.

We are indeed proud that the cast of our theater may enjoy these increasing musical opportunities.

DANCE BAND

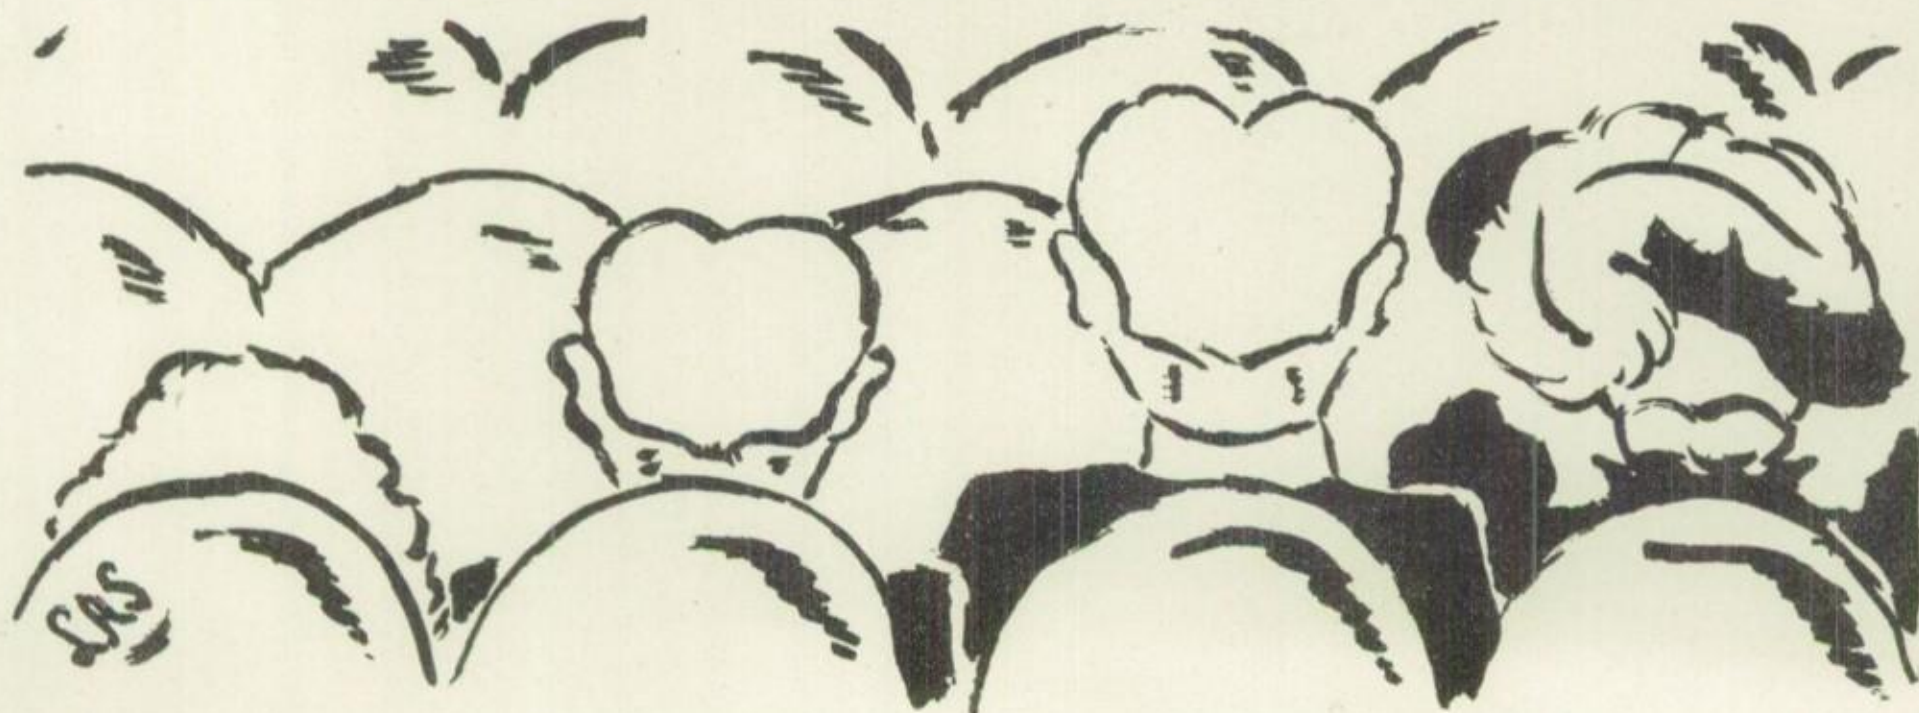

Many times in the limelight this year was the H. H. S. Dance Band, the Trojans. This group of "hep cats", players of popular music, under the direction of Mr. Robert Smith, spent many laborious hours rehearsing for its scheduled appearances, including those of entertaining at assembly programs throughout the season's run. The Trojans provided the music for numerous social events, not only for the dances staged by our own cast, but also for the dances of various other high schools.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Athletic Council's responsibilities are not known to many students. The Athletic Council arranges schedules, hires the officials, purchases the athletic equipment, and does many jobs having to do with our sports program.

The council also sponsors the Athletic Association drive each year so that students who join may get reduced prices for all home sports events.

This year baseball, track, and tennis were added to the many sports already in our school. Thanks to the Athletic Council for our well-rounded sports' program from September to June.

VARSITY~H CLUB

This organization is for the boys who win the coveted "H" signifying their outstanding work in the field of sports.

Each year the club sponsors the Alumni basketball game. The proceeds go to the Varsity "H" sweater fund. The money is used to purchase sweaters with stripes for the seniors.

Another big feature that this club sponsors is the annual spring dance. The main attraction of the evening is a floorshow performed by the boys themselves.

The club is under the supervision of Mr. Brittain.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

The loss of a coach and five veteran players gave little prospect for a championship basketball team this year.

However, under the expert coaching of Mr. Banta the team has won a few major victories such as, the H. I. S. and Hanover. Victories over Shippensburg, Mechanicsburg, Annville, and Waynesboro have also been registered by the courtmen.

JAYVEE BASKETBALL

With last year's entire first string elevated to the varsity, Coach Beck had to look for capable replacements.

Coming up from the Junior High team were many young prospects. Carl Crum, Donald Grider, and Carl Mease were the most promising sophomores.

Juniors of this year who saw lots of action and should be a great help to next year's varsity are Robert Kosier, Richard Keiffer, Fred Rice, and John Reisinger.

WRESTLING SQUAD

The Hershey High matmen have, so far, the best record of any athletic team this year.

Only one team has been able to turn back the grapplers twice. This was Lancaster. The team has won such major victories as H. I. S., Manheim, and Hanover.

The prospects look very good for next year and the following year, as the starting team is composed of two seniors, five juniors, and four sophomores.

Thanks to Mr. Brittain, the coach, and the fighting hearts of the wrestlers, we have a wrestling team of whom we can well be proud.

The swimming team has done well considering the tremendous competition it has had.

The best event this year was the 200-yard free-style relay. The relay team, composed of Tshudy, Shafer, Stuckey, and Kurtz, have lost only to the Lancaster team.

Mr. Kent, the coach, has been coaching the Junior High boys as well as the seniors. With this early training Hershey High should have winning swimming teams for the next few years.

This group of girls helped to carry out the girls' sports' program this year under the capable guidance of Miss Hallman. Its members assisted the senior high girls during intramural basketball season by keeping score and supervising the games. Intramural volleyball was next on the schedule, and with spring came softball.

During the home basketball games, these girls sold candy to get money for 'blazers for the senior members.

One glance at the variety of the girls' sports' program will show that this group had an industrious but very successful year.

An organization which may well account for the pep and spirit among the actors of our theater was the Booster Club. Its membership this year was the largest in the club's history. Outstanding activities of the "Booster Club Girls" were the selling of programs at Trojan contests and the decorating of the Chocolate Bowl for the football games.

The social event of the season was the formal dance, an elaborate occasion financed by the program profits.

L. to R. Betty Weaver, Louise Whisler, Hanna Sponaugle, Arlene Fausnacht, Joan Newton, Lois Shultz.

PHYSICAL CULTURE

Everyone knows that all people connected with the theater need recreation of some kind. The athletic program of Hershey High provides such opportunity for the female cast. Their outdoor sports include field hockey, soccer, speed-ball, softball, tennis, golf, and badminton. Indoors they keep themselves busy with basketball, volleyball, and tenniquoit. The photographic previews of girls' sports on these pages reveal the manner in which the theatrical intermission is spent.

PEP SQUAD

Credit should be given to these lively cheerleaders for their faithful service of maintaining an enthusiastic contact between the cast and its audience. In all kinds of weather — before a winning or losing team — these girls, clad in orange and blue, were always on hand to keep the crowd alive and peppy.

Under the capable leadership of Joan Newton, the captain, this group was present to cheer at all the basketball and football games, as well as at the pep rallies.

Raise The Score

Come on, Hershey,
Burn the floor!
Come on, team,
Raise the score!
We can win,
Don't give in.
Come on, Hershey,
Let's begin!!!

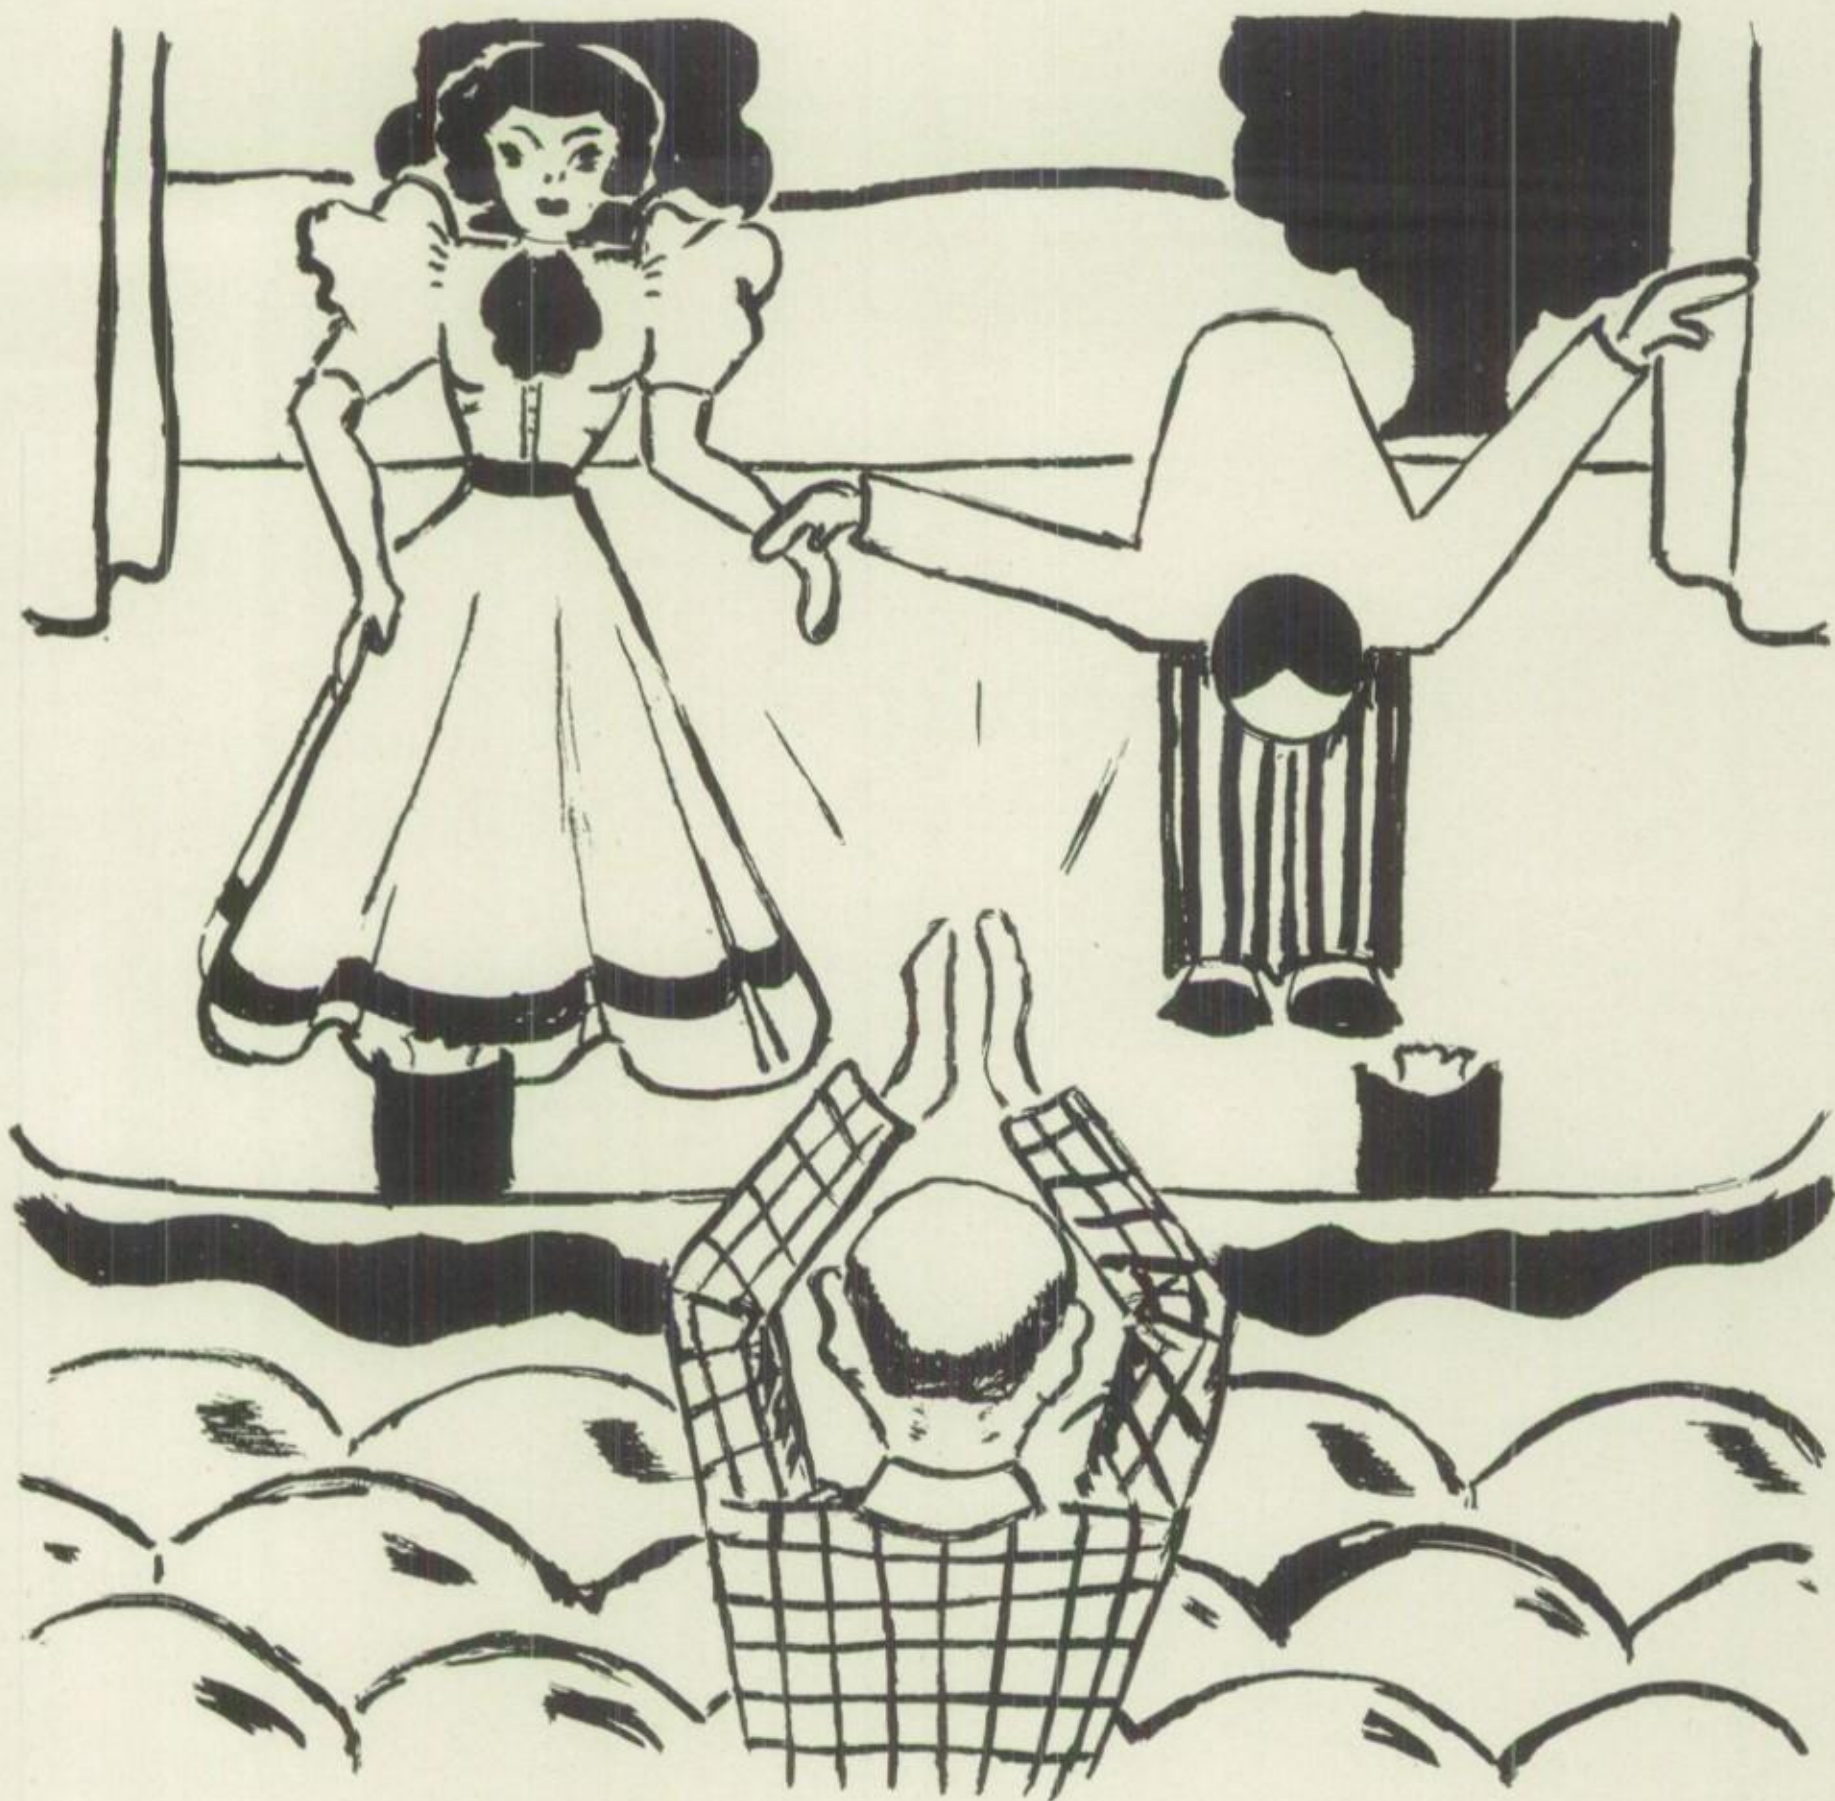

Tin Can Yell

Shout it from the grandstand;
Beat it on a tin can!
Who can? We can!
Nobody else can!
Yea, Hershey!
Team, Team, Team!!!

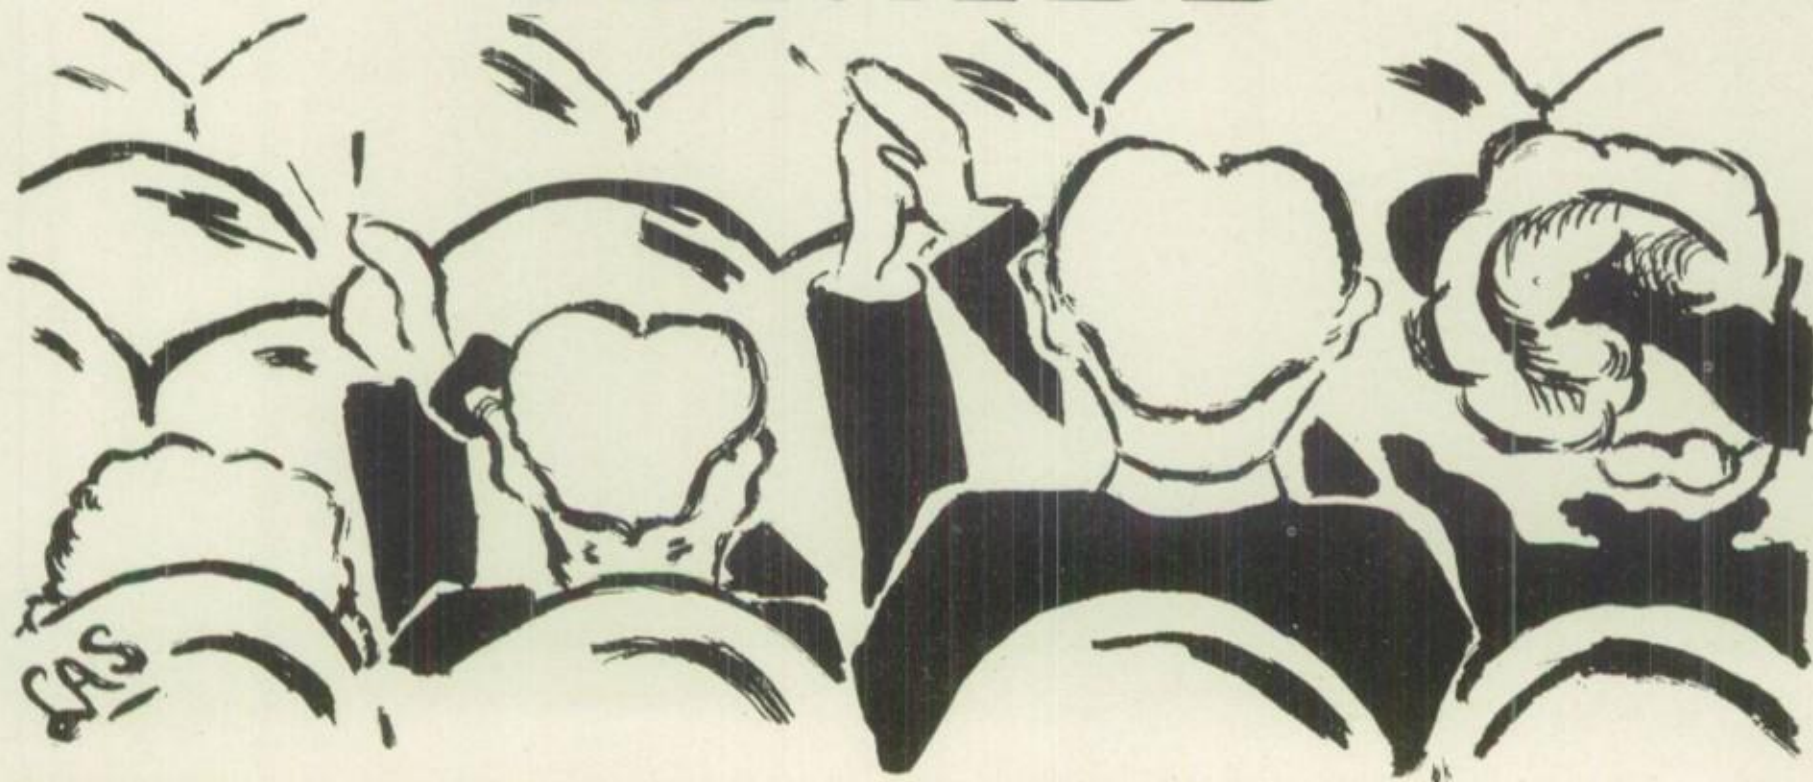

*Before the final curtain falls,
We pause to make a bow.
Farewells in parting make us sad
We'd rather say them now.*

FOR YOUR ENLIGHTENMENT

AS long as you can read the printed word, you can have the world before your eyes—foreign diplomacy; fashions in Paris; politics in the U.S.A.; the latest society romance; Hollywood gossip; and what stores have collected from the world's markets for better living.

Man's task is, first to develop, then to distribute the earth's products.

A store serves its community; first, by providing a center of distribution for these goods; second, by keeping its people enlightened as to the merits of its products through its advertising.

If you want to have the best of everything you can afford, shop in Hershey where we shoulder the responsibility of keeping you abreast of every advancement for enlightened living.

Have you heard about the Army's new Technical School Plan?

CAREERS WITH A FUTURE
U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force

If you're looking for a way to acquire sound training in a skill or trade, the U. S. Army's recently announced Technical School Program enables you to select from nearly 100 courses the school offering the training you prefer, qualify for it before you enlist, and be assured of attending it after completion of basic training.

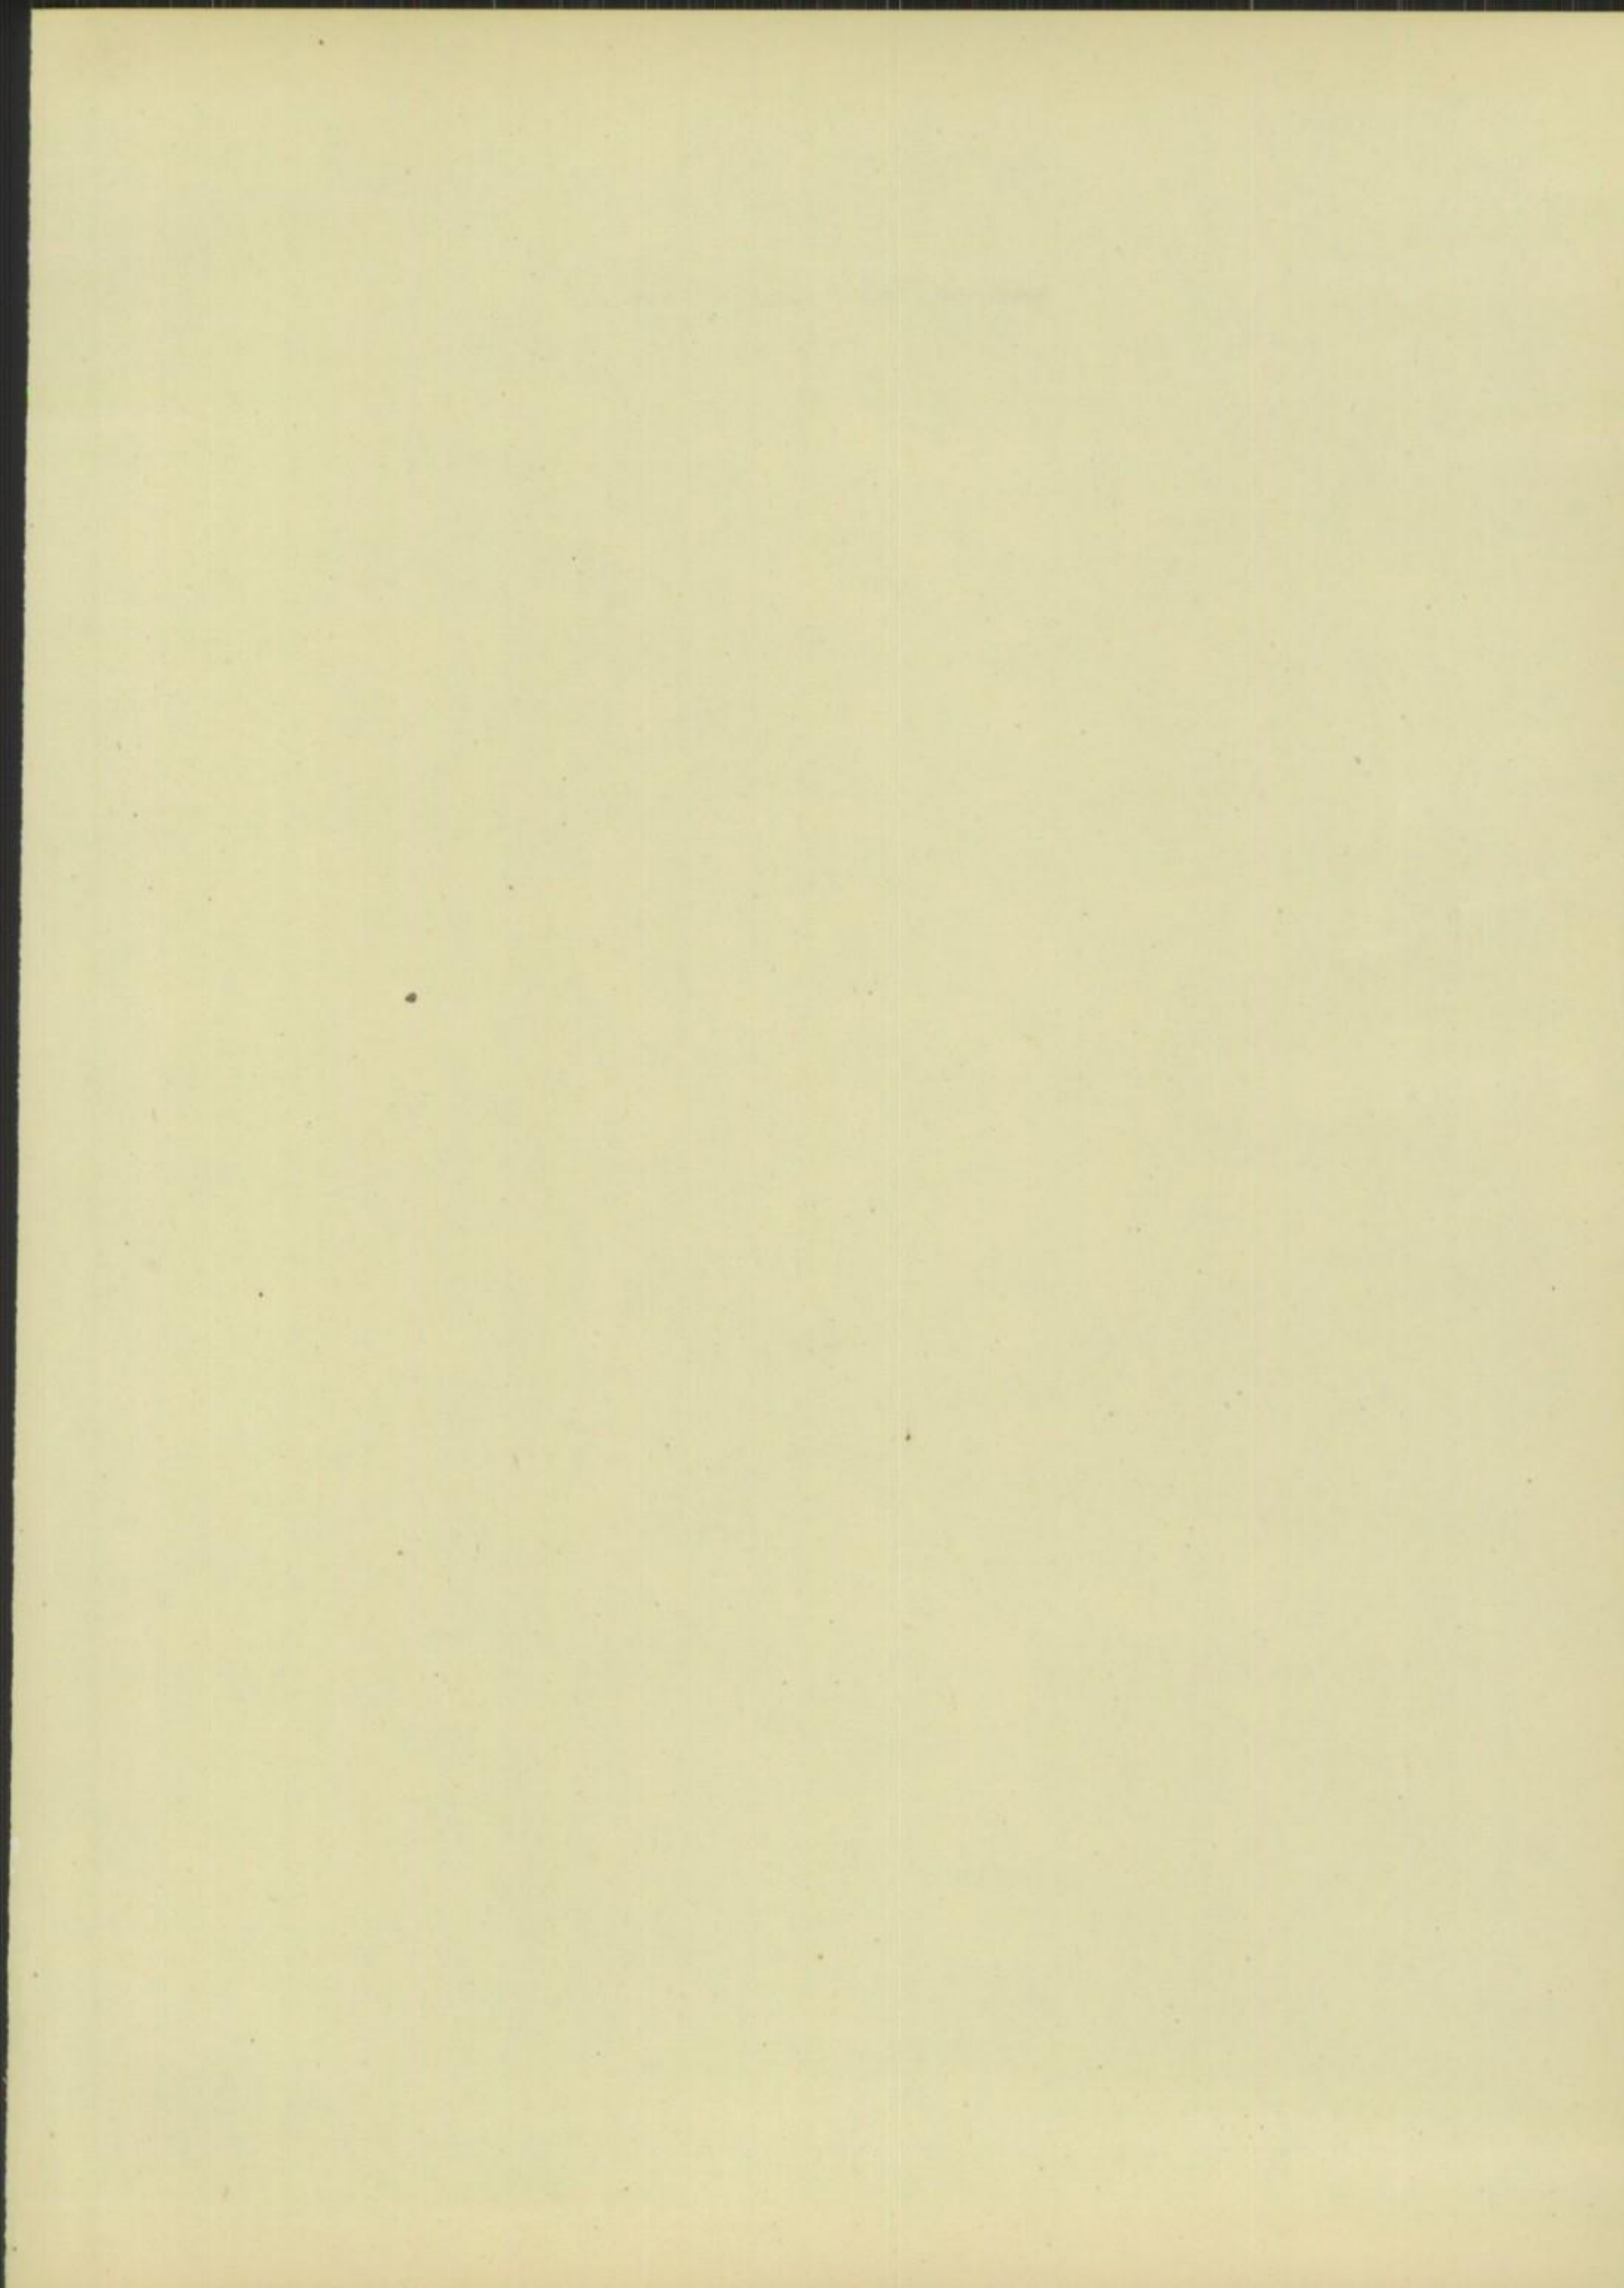

The program is open to high school graduates between 17 and 34 years old. Non-high school graduates may also qualify for attendance after enlisting.

The Technical School Program gives you a real opportunity to launch a profitable career — at good pay from the start. Your nearest U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting Station has full details. Get them today!
